

SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Copy for the "Say" column failed to arrive Wednesday and this feature of The Herald thus is eliminated temporarily. Evidently "Say" mailed his letter telling of happenings of the Texas party too late to reach Greencastle.

She is a sweet, darling little thing, just old enough to begin to "sit up and take notice" of what is going on around the home. The other morning she awakened early and running into her parents' bed room climbed into bed with them, and, regardless of their probable desire to take a last morning nap, started to tell them things of interest. "Oh, daddy," said she "I had a dream last night, about Charley Arnold." Surprised to say the least the proud "daddy" inquired: "What on earth did you dream about him, baby?" "Oh, I just dreamed I was reading some of his rotten poetry." Which, although not in the complimentary is very pleasing to me.

From far off Clarksville, Tenn., there comes to me a post card—I have been "carded"—from my old friend "Wib" Clodfelter, who is now Federal Land Banking a bit for the Louisville Federal Land bank. Wib's picture postcard shows the Post Office at Clarksville, and comment as follows: "This is the Post Office, but the court house does not have a sidewalk around it. 'Wib'. Lucky Court House."

The Weather—Much more seasonable, thank you, and a lot less sloppy.

No idea is worth much unless a first-class man is back of it.

Most of us fear our friends more than our enemies.

If experience is a good teacher some of us ought to be a lot brighter by this time than we appear to be.

If you're paying all your bills, you're doing pretty well.

PROMISE "RED HOT" EXPOSURE OF "BABE" RUTH

MEMBERS OF MRS. RUTH'S FAMILY PREPARE TO BATTLE IN COURT FOR POSSESSION OF LITTLE DOROTHY RUTH

HOME RUN KING WANTS CHILD

Exposures Are Promised By Attorney William J. Woodford, Brother of Dead Girl

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—(INS)—Promising a "red hot exposure" of George Herman "Babe" Ruth after the funeral of his wife, members of Mrs. Ruth's family today prepared to battle in the courts with the "Home Run King" for the possession of little Dorothy Ruth.

"Never, I'll stand for almost anything but that. You can never have Dorothy—that much I'll tell you right now." This was what the grief-stricken baseball player was quoted as telling his sister-in-law, Mrs. Joanna McCarthy.

Petitions to the courts were prepared, asking for the custody of the eight-year-old girl that Ruth has claimed was his own child but whom others claim was adopted in Brooklyn, N. Y. Ruth's friends predicted that he would reach an amicable understanding regarding the future of Dorothy.

Meanwhile, the child played on the snow-covered slope on the grounds of the Academy of the Assumption at Wellesley Hills, cheeks rosy and eyes twinkling. And by a strange twist of fate her companion at play was Alice Harvey, six-year-old daughter of the late sister of Dr. Edward H. Kinder, in whose burning Watertown home Mrs. Ruth lost her life.

The "red hot exposures" were promised by Attorney Wm. J. Woodford, of New York, a brother of the fire victim, in a published statement. He did not state the nature of the alleged "exposure."

Mrs. Ruth's step mother, sister and brothers were said to be ready to try and prove that the "big bimbina" was "an unsuitable person" to have charge of the child because of his travelling eight months in the year. They were prepared to ask to be appointed administrators of her estate.

Much depends on the status of the child. Under Massachusetts laws, if Dorothy is the legal child of the "Babe" and Mrs. Ruth she is entitled to two-thirds of her mother's estate. If she has been legally adopted the same holds true. However, if there was no proof of adoption then the "Babe" could only claim $5,000 and the remainder of the estate would be divided among members of Mrs. Ruth's family and the child. Contents of a box of jewelry and papers taken by the Watertown police from the Kinder house assumed importance.

Suggestions that Mrs. Ruth met death as the result of foul play faded today. Reports of a wound in the front of her scalp were denied by physicians who examined the body. Medical examiner George Bruce McGrath had completed the second autopsy and was understood to have found no trace of violence, poison or drugs. This was the same finding of medical examiner George L. West of Middlesex County who stated after the first autopsy that Mrs. Ruth died from accidental suffocation and inclination.

MAY SELECT NEW COUNCILMAN ON NEXT TUESDAY

NO DEFINITE ARRANGEMENT AS YET, HOWEVER—PLAN TO CALL SPECIAL MEETING FOLLOWING REGULAR MEETING

Although nothing definite has as yet been decided it is probable that a special meeting of the city council will be called next Tuesday evening, immediately following the regular council meeting, in order to choose a councilman to complete the term of Frank Allee, councilman from the Second Ward, who died last week.

Under Indiana statutes councilmen must, within fifteen days after the death of a member, call a special meeting for the purpose of choosing a successor to the deceased. In order to avoid two meetings it is probable that the special session will be called immediately at the close of the regular meeting.

As yet very little talk has been heard regarding candidates to succeed Mr. Allee.

MRS. LARKIN PASSES AWAY

The club has purchased a new alarm clock which will be set to go off at exactly 1:20 each Thursday. The clock, the president announced last week, will serve two purposes: first, to notify the speaker that his time is up; second, to arouse any of the members who may be asleep so they will not spend the afternoon at the church. The program committee promises a good program this week.

THREE DIE IN TERRE HAUTE GAS EXPLOSION

OLD DON ROBERTS BUILDING HOUSING MISSION, GROCERY AND BARBER SHOP, IS DESTROYED

THREE BODIES RECOVERED

Was Located Across Street From Vigo County Court House Which Was Slightly Damaged By Blast

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Having recovered three bodies and six injured from the wreckage of the Don Roberts Building, destroyed by a terrific gas explosion, firemen today continued digging into the ruins for additional victims. The structure housed the Benlah Mission the Nasser Grocery and Brook barber shop and rooms were furnished by the mission to transients on the second and third stories.

The dead were: HABEEB NASSER, 40, the grocer, F. D. SHERMAN, of Oak Park, Ill., a grocer.

ALEX LLOYD, 55, a laborer. The injured were:

MRS. KASHKEY NASSER, wife of Habeeb, GEORGE BROOKS, 38, barber, G. W. GADDIS, assistant to Brooks, HOSEA ANNIS, janitor, FRED FULLER, 55, laborer, VIRGIL BAUTH.

The structure was 93 years old and was located at 2nd and Wabash street, within four blocks of the heart of the city and across the street from the Vigo County Court house which was slightly damaged by the blast.

The rumble of the explosion was heard all over the downtown district. Buildings within blocks were shaken while every window pane in a radius of a block of the wrecked building was shattered.

The walls of the Roberts building collapsed, falling inside. Above the cracking and noise of the wreckage rose the screams of the injured. Every fire department in the city responded to the alarm. Fire broke out in the ruins and this added to the intense cold handicapped the firemen. Police had difficulty in holding back the big crowd that soon gathered.

Ambulances took the dead and injured away as firemen recovered the bodies of the victims. Sherman and Lloyd were found dead in the ruins while Nasser died later in Union Hospital.

The theory given greatest credence today in explanation of the blast which at first caused many wild reports, was that a gas main probably was broken when coal was thrown into the basement. Brooks, Gaddis and Annis smelled the fumes and went to the basement to investigate according to their stories. They left the door of the barbershop open and the gas fumes apparently reached a stove and were ignited.

The building was owned by Mrs. Don Roberts, wife of the former mayor of Terre Haute who was sent to prison after a big election scandal several years ago. The structure had been condemned by the state fire marshal and it was being renovated into a rescue home.

Coroner E. E. Hoffe was to open his inquest today into the deaths of the three men killed in the explosion.

STUDENT RUSH AT THEATER IS THWARTED

ATTEMPT TO CELEBRATE VICTORY OVER WABASH BY SEEING SHOW FREE OF CHARGE FAILS—POLICE AND FIREMEN CALLED OUT

The customary practice of allowing DePauw students free admission to local movie houses following an athletic victory apparently has come to an end.

Following the DePauw basketball victory over Wabash Tuesday night the students attempted to storm the Voncaste theatre. The management refused them admission and it was necessary to call the police and fire department before the students would cease their efforts to get into the movie house. They attempted to gain entrance from the rear and tore one of the large exit doors down and damaged another. They also broke a glass window out of the box office. Walter Bidwell, manager stated that the movies had always been very liberal with the students following a victory, but that in rushing the movie they ruined the local movie picture business and caused a great deal of disturbance.

BANK HEAD ENDS LIFE; ANOTHER TRIES SUICIDE

SHELburn BANKER CRITICAL

Jessup S. Bollinger, of Shelburn Found In Garage By Father—Had Tried Suicide

SULLIVAN, Ind., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Sullivan County was stirred this afternoon by the tragic developments in banking circles, following what appeared to be a suicide of one banking official here and the reported attempted suicide of another bank official at Shelburn, six miles north of here.

The body of Edgar Donald Maple, 45, vice president of the People's National Bank & Trust Company, was found with a bullet hole in his forehead near a vault in the National Bank here, which the People's Bank & Trust Company had recently absorbed.

A few hours later citizens of Sullivan County were further shocked to learn that Jessup S. Bollinger, president of the First State Bank at Shelburn, had sought to end his life by inhaling carbon monoxide fumes. His body was found in his garage at Shelburn by his father, C. D. Bollinger.

The Shelburn Bank board of directors called in the State Banking Department which ordered the bank closed. A bank examiner was sent to Shelburn to take charge.

The bank examiner stated that the bank was closed because President Bollinger had attempted to take his life. The State banking department will have nothing to do with the institution at Sullivan inasmuch as it is a national bank.

SULLIVAN, Ind., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Don Maple, 45, vice-president of the People's National Bank & Trust Company, was found shot to death today under mysterious circumstances, near the vault in the National Bank, which is one of the two local institutions that recently merged to form the People's National Bank & Trust Company. The two banks had not yet moved under one roof.

The body was found by William C. Jamison, assistant cashier. There was a bullet hole in the forehead from which a large pool of blood had collected. The body was cold. A side door to the bank was open.

Near the body lay a revolver. Jamison said that a hurried check of the contents of the vault had shown everything intact.

"There isn't a thing missing," Jamison said.

However, the bank did not transact business today, its doors being closed while county authorities and the bank officials were probing this second startling mystery in local banking circles within twelve months.

In February 1928, James M. Lang, 72, president of the Citizens Trust Company here, and one of the most prominent citizens of this county, disappeared leaving a wrecked bank behind. Lang was not connected in any way with the two banks which had just merged.

RATIFY KELLOGG TREATY. TURN TO CRUISER BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(INS)—With the United States pledged to renounce war and settle all future disputes peacefully, the Senate today turned to the administration's plan for increasing the strength of the American Navy.

"Treaty or no treaty, America's Navy must be prepared for war," was in effect the slogan adopted by administration leaders who had just finished securing ratification of the Kellogg-Briand multi-lateral anti-war compact. The naval bill would authorize the construction of fifteen new fast cruisers and a gigantic aircraft carrier, the largest increase of the Navy establishment proposed since the Harding disarmament conference.

Proponents of the bill declared the new warships would not place America on the 5-5-3 naval ratio with Great Britain, but would merely enable the navy to replace some worn-out obsolete cruisers, which would be of little use in event of war. The opposition however will fight the proposed increase on the ground that it means launching the United States on a naval race with Great Britain and Japan.

LINER LIMPS INTO PORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(INS)—With one dead and several others injured, the White Star liner Majestic, the largest British steamship limped into port today badly damaged by mountainous waves that fairly engulfed her in mid-Atlantic Monday.

So huge was the wave that it literally dropped on the ship, sending thousands of tons of water over it. The whole forward deck was smashed, plate glass windows were broken, steel cargo booms were twisted as though they were matches.

Famished passengers rushed on deck, fearing the Majestic had struck an iceberg.

Leonard Fioroni, third class cook, was tossed against a door and his neck was broken.

Other members of the crew and several passengers were injured.

OGDEN PUSHES SHUMAKER CASE VIGOROUSLY

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 16.—(INS)—Although Attorney General James M. Ogden has generally been considered more friendly to Dr. Edward S. Shumaker, Indiana Anti-Saloon League Superintendent, than his predecessor, Arthur L. Gilliom, Ogden vigorously opposed the "dry" chief's effort to avoid serving 60 days at the State Penal Farm for contempt of court in a brief on file in federal court here today.

The brief energetically attacked the legal contentions of Shumaker's attorneys, who are seeking to make permanent a temporary writ of habeas corpus federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell issued that prevented commitment of the prohibition leader by order of the Indiana Supreme Court after Governor Ed Jackson had pardoned him on Oct. 19.

Dr. Shumaker and Ogden were college friends at DePauw University and Shumaker had backed Ogden in the primary and election races. However, there was no suggestion of leniency in Ogden's brief. With the end of the term of Gilliom, Shumaker's arch opponent, Anti-Saloon League leaders had hoped for an abatement of the determined prosecution that Gilliom began nearly three years ago, when he filed a contempt information after Shumaker had called Supreme Court justices "wet."

The brief, which was prepared by Ogden and his assistant, Joseph W. Hutchinson, stoutly maintained that Governor Jackson had no legal power to pardon Shumaker and that his act was an infringement upon the constitutional independence of the judiciary, which, like the executive and legislative branches of government, has certain rights that cannot be violated by either of the other branches.

Ogden's brief said that the pardoning of contempts effects vitally the very existence of the Supreme court.

The power to punish contempts is necessary to preserve the court from interference, the brief said.

"This case has attracted widespread attention throughout the state and possibly beyond the limits of the state," the brief concluded. "It has become the duty of the attorney general to appear for and represent the respondent in this action. It has been his effort to faithfully present the question involved."

With the submission of a reply brief from Shumaker's attorneys, which must be presented by Friday, the habeas corpus will pass into the hands of Judge Baltzell for a final ruling on whether Shumaker shall serve the 60 days of imprisonment.

LESLIE PUTS END TO SALES OFFICE

Henry L. Roberts, state sales agent was the first to feel the effect of Governor Harry G. Leslie's program of economy and efficiency then the Governor directed the joint purchasing board to abolish the office yesterday.

The Governor's recommendation was put in effect immediately by the board and the state sales agency will go out of existence today.

Roberts has held the position since it was created in 1925. He received a salary of $300 a month and expenses. Duties of the sales agent were to dispose of surplus products of factories at the three state penal institutions.

It was understood that the Legislature will be asked to adopt some measure to strengthen the state's present use of prison-made products so that various units of government will use practically all goods manufactured in the institutions.

Rumors that Governor Leslie would abolish the office have been current in Statehouse circles for several months.

SHUMAKER IS RE-ELECTED DRY LEADER

BEGINS HIS TWENTY-SECOND YEAR AS SUPERINTENDENT OF INDIANA ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE—BISHOP FOUT NAMED PRESIDENT

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 16.—(INS)—Dr. E. S. Shumaker today started his 22nd year as superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, having been re-elected by the board of directors of the league. The veteran dry leader is the oldest Anti-Saloon League state superintendent in the point of service in the United States.

The board also re-elected Bishop H. H. Fout of the United Brethren Church as president of the league. Others elected were Rev. C. H. Winder of the Northwood Christian Church as vice-president; Rev. Ernest N. Evans, general secretary of the Church Federation of Indianapolis as secretary and Mrs. Lottie E. Klintworth of Indianapolis as acting treasurer.

Dr. Shumaker made his annual report to the league in which he reviewed the accomplishments of the league during 1928 and made suggestions for 1929. He commended the inaugural address of Governor Harry G. Leslie and also paid tribute to the address of James M. Ogden when the latter took office as new attorney general on January 1.

The report characterized the last presidential election as a "real referendum" on prohibition and pointed out that the "prohibition forces won by a majority of more than 6,000,000 in the nation and by more than 280,000 in Indiana."

New Crop of "Air Debbies" Ready to Try Wings

Amelia Earhart (left), Lady Heath (upper right) and Thea Rasche, respectively, first ladies of the air in America, Great Britain and Germany.

Flower Vases, Mirrors and Dressing Tables Built Into "Skyabouts"

By International Illustrated News CHICAGO—The way the girls are going in for Aviation is nobody's business! Inspired by the Amelia Earharts, the Lady Heaths and the Thea Rasches, the new crop of air debbies has, it is apparent, decided to fly high—and mighty—from this day henceforth. Models on view at the recent Aeronautical show prove this. For, whereas previous aircraft exhibits have concerned themselves mainly with the masculine buyer, the 1929 show evidenced a very earnest desire on the part of builders to appeal to the fair sex.

Not only was the tendency to be noted in richness of colors and the expensive materials used; it was evident in accessories and innovations in all of the cabin planes. For example, there was an amphibian flying boat designed to carry six passengers and two pilots which contained a galley, a tiny refrigerator and a cabinet with serving facilities. What woman wouldn't exclaim with joy over these?

Cigaret lighters and ash trays were to be found in nearly all of the cabin jobs; many sported flower vases, mirrors and built-in dressing tables.

Another noticeable improvement was the placing of doors in such manner as to make the ships easier of entry—a little thing, yes, but important to women.

Among the planes exhibited was one in white and gold that made one think of movie stars. The interior was done in green, while the chairs were of gold wicker with green silk cushions. In another "job" were beautifully monogrammed pillows.

Silken Drapes for Windows Still another ship boasted striped green silk draperies to pull over the windows instead of blinds, and one even featured a good-sized mirror in the lavatory.

Records of the show proved that these innovations weren't in vain, for there were many feminine purchasers represented among the orders for planes.

So don't be surprised at an entirely new crop of up and coming swoop and dive girls!

Europe to U. S. In 3 Days Via Giant Dirigible

Members of Parliament having tea aboard the R-100 at her formal unveiling to the public. Inset, Lieut. George Noville, U. S. N., who will navigate giant air liner on her maiden voyage.

Dream of Ocean Fliers About to Come True With the R-100

By TOM EDWARDS

LONDON (HIN)—When "Slim" Lindbergh gambled his life on one motor and his knack of nursing a plane through the air to get him safely over the Atlantic to Paris he believed that his flight might point the way to the ultimate linking of the New and Old Worlds by regular air lines.

But his most optimistic guess was that it couldn't come before five years. Now, a year and a half later, his dream is actually on the point of realization—in a luxuriously appointed monster of the sky, fitted out with every comfort of an ocean liner.

Huge Bag Undergoing Tests This amazing airship, now undergoing tests at Howden airfield, fulfills the most imaginative wish pictures of the enthusiasts. Her official designation is the R-100; her builder is Commander Richard Bume, formerly of the Royal Navy. An idea of the super air liner may be had from a mere statement of her dimensions: She is 709 feet long, 130 feet high and will easily carry 135 persons, inclusive of crew, in addition to ten tons of mail and freight. Six Rolls Royce engines will drive her through the air at a cruising speed of 75 miles an hour.

Comfortable, Safe and Speedy! Every detail of comfort, convenience, safety and speed has been attended to in her building, so that Europe may be said already to be only forty-eight hours away from the Western hemisphere. The R-100's maiden voyage will probably be made early next Spring, a tentative timetable for it and other early voyages having been made public as follows:

Egypt, 2 1/2 days; India, 5 to 6 days; Australia, 10 days; Cape town, 6 days, Canada, 3 days. Navigation of the R-100 across the Atlantic to a mooring mast in Canada is to be in the capable hands of Lieutenant George Noville, U. S. N., aide to Commander Richard E. Byrd on his trans-Atlantic flight from Roosevelt Field, L. I., to the coast of France.

TREATMENT OF NEW KONJOLA BANISHED HEALTH TROUBLES

"Feel Like A Different Woman," Exclaims Indiana Lady; Wonders Worked In Remarkable Short Time

MRS. LINA HUNTER

"Since taking a treatment of Konjola, I feel like a different woman and it is certainly a blessing to have glorious health again," said Mrs. Lina Hunter, 708 east Superior street, Kokomo, Indiana.

"My stomach had been in a completely disordered condition and I dreaded to see meal time come. My liver was sluggish, refusing to yield to any laxative. I lost all energy and interest in life. Day in and day out I went through the same trouble. It was a discouraging situation and I was at a loss to know what to do."

"I was inclined to scoff at the idea of Konjola alone relieving all my health troubles, but insistence from friends won and I decided to give it a trial. That was the wisest decision I could have made because it completely restored my health in a remarkably short time. The stomach symptoms fought a losing battle with Konjola and soon were gone entirely. My liver was regulated and now functions without the aid of laxatives. My restoration to health was like a miracle and I will never let it escape again."

Konjola is sold in Greenville at Owl drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

THE VONCASTLE

"The Mating Call," Stars

Three Prominent Actors

"The Mating Call," which comes to the Voncastle theatre Thursday and Friday, is another sensational Thomas Meighan vehicle and, like "The Racket," his previous offering, is one of the best pictures of this masterful star's brilliant career.

Action, suspense and heart-throbs are reeled off in rapid and convincing continuity in the newest Meighan picture.

Adapted from a widely-read novel by Rex Beach, "The Mating Call," is a scintillating and fast-moving romantic thriller, a brilliant film version of a superior story.

Clever direction by James Cruze and the excellent acting of the star and his fine supporting cast, combine to make "The Mating Call" one of Meighan's best and one of the best screenings of the year.

A sensational angle of the picture, a bold bit of filmization, is the realistic portrayal of the activities of a band of masked members of a secret society. This is the first time that a producer has had the daring to reproduce with such amazing fidelity the intimidating methods of hooded terrorists.

Evelyn Brent and Renee Adoree share honors in the feminine department, providing Meighan with double support in the leading lady division.

Last times today John Gilbert in "The Masque of the Devil."

CROOKS CAN'T WIN

Novelized by KENNETH HALLAM

Copyrighted by FEO Pictures Corp. 1927-28
From the thrilling FEO Drama starring Ralph Lewis

SYNOPSIS

Lured from his beat by a letter from his brother, Dicky, while bandits again raided the Dayton silk warehouses, Danny Malone is discharged from the police force to disgrace. Jimmy Wells, a reporter working on the robbery case, advises him to go into hiding. Jimmy and Danny's sweetheart, Mary Gillen, are both confident of Danny's innocence of neglect of duty and are determined to clear him. Mary is employed in the office of Alfred Dayton, Jr., whose father is threatening to shake up the police department unless the bandits are captured. Mary and Jimmy suspect young Dayton of working with the raiders and in the hope of obtaining evidence against him, Jimmy proposes that Mary accept his offer proffered offer to take her to a night club.

When Mary came down the short flight of steps from her home the truck was a couple of hundred feet down the street, and immediately it quickened its pace. As she passed it swung wildly towards the left hand side of the road as if the driver were looking everywhere but ahead. Instantly it was pulled back onto a straight path, but Jimmy had seen enough, so he sprinted out from his hiding place and managed to make the running board as it gathered speed.

Opening the door, he calmly crawled in and seated himself. "It was Danny, as he had guessed, and in spite of the friendship that had grown up between them he did not

"Well, if Paddy sent you maybe I can use you. Come around to-morrow night an' ah'll give you a load to take to Harlem. Twenty-five bucks . . . an' no questions." "Okay with me, I'll be around."

The negro called him as he was leaving the yard.

"Be here about eight an' help the other guy load."

During the following day Danny had little to do but think. For a time he prowled around the region under the Williamsburg bridge hoping to see Dick or someone that might lead him to him. In the afternoon he took in a picture "Hook and Ladder No. 9," where the hero and heroine came together after unkind sufferings. It reminded him of Mary, that was the heroine's name also, so he left before it was over and went back to his room.

There was a photograph of Mary on the table. A little one that he had had enlarged from a snapshot he had taken last year. He even remembered the day on which it was taken.

They had been for a ride with some friends and had gone up the west shore of the Hudson. How blue the river had looked from the Palisades that day! With this and other dreams the time passed more or less quickly. A supper of canned pork and beans and he was ready to leave for his new job.

When he reached the garage he realized what Paddy had meant. The building was large enough for at least twenty trucks but the seem to be very welcome. Danny kept quiet and waited for him to speak.

"Okay with me, I'll be around."

"Say, Malone," Jimmy grinned, "I didn't give you credit for so much sense."

"What do you mean?" growled the other.

"Why, doing this. You've got a great chance of picking up some news of the silk warehouse doing this. What kind of a firm are you working for?"

"I'm not working, I'm through . . ." and Danny glared straight ahead of him.

"Why, man, you're crazy. This is one of the best breaks you've ever had. In your present condition you'll be welcome in every gang in New York and if you don't pick up some clue in the near future we're still out of luck."

"You mean you still want to work with me?" asked Danny.

"Don't be crazy, man," answered Jimmy, "I don't know what your reason was for leaving post, an' I don't want to know. All I mean is that I think you're square and if you want to clear this damn thing up I'm with you."

"Jimmy, you're a prince. This was on the point of telling him the real reason when a pick lumber truck swerved across them and in the ensuing confusion the subject was forgotten."

"I've got to go now, Danny. Take my telephone number and let me know anything that may be helpful. By the way, tell me where you're living and for God's sake change to a trucking firm that isn't so respectable. See you soon."

Jimmy was gone and Danny felt a few of his old spirits returning. If Jimmy believed in him maybe Mary would and if they could only clear this thing up it still wasn't too late to alter things.

That night he quit the firm where he had found work and on the advice of a little Irish driver went to see a man who, as Paddy said:

"Maybe won't talk so much about what he wants you to do, and he'll pay you plenty for doing it. Tell him I sent you."

Danny found the Larson Trucking Company, and noticed that the five big trucks in the yard appeared to be built for speed sooner than for utility. At first he was unable to find anyone to talk to, then he noticed a little office in the corner of the yard and going over found a big buck negro poring over a late copy of the Graphic.

"Anything doing around here?" he asked.

"Well, big boy, Ah'm de boss here," houts an' ah'm thinking 'd'ah ain't."

"Paddy Ryan sent me over and told me you would have plenty for me to do. Sure you ain't got anything?"

space that was not filled by the five speed wagons that he had seen in the yard was taken up by small wooden cases and bundles wrapped in burlap. A strange smell pervaded the atmosphere and as if that were not enough, one of the cases had been opened and its white-capped contents placed on an upturned box.

So Larson was a bootlegger. For a moment Dan thought of going back. On top of the recent developments to be arrested as driver of a liquor truck would mean a sentence. He guessed that it was only the scandal that was saving him now and as soon as the police got anything definite on him he would get a short and effective shift.

Then he realized that this would be his only chance of helping Jimmy. He couldn't help grinning. Not a month ago he landed on the force through his unaided efforts, was acclaimed a hero, given a great chance for advancement, thrown out of the cops, and now he was a bootlegger. All in a month.

With a grin he accented the huge negro who was leaning against the tailboard of a truck.

"Which one is mine?" he asked.

"Dis one, big boy. Shed dat coat ob yu'r an' wrastle dese things aboard."

Dan found that his truckmate was to be a tall, good natured young Irishman whose twinkling eyes told of the reason he was in this game.

"Lo, buddy," this gentleman remarked, "looks like a heavy load for us tonight . . . no, catch hold of 'em this way."

In ten minutes the truck was loaded and Danny was at home with his companion. Larson had been watching them, and seeing the wholehearted way in which he piled the boxes and bundles aboard he decided that his latest acquisition was a good one.

"The other fellow's name was Murphy and before the truck pulled out he went over to Larson to get his final instructions."

"Say, kid," he remarked when he came back, "it's not as bad as it looked. We're only got two places, the Orange Grove up on 135th and the Red Mill on 79th. I don't know the last place but I've been to the Harlem joint before. Wow, what a wild dive!"

Danny wasn't very much interested after he found that his route led him up town. There was little chance of seeing anything useful up there, nevertheless he was interested and listened while Murphy poured out a wild story of the wild doings at the Harlem clubs.

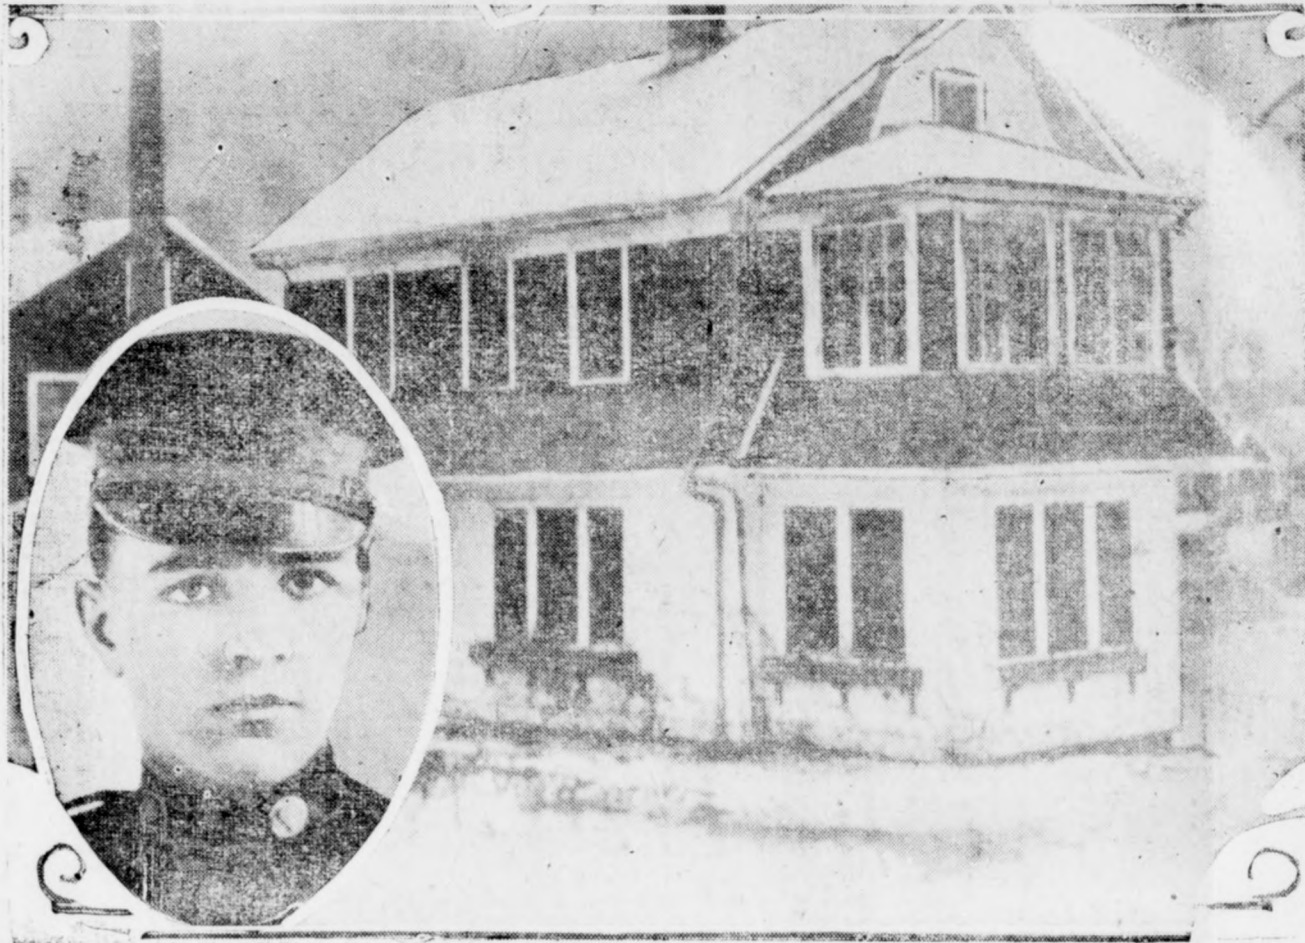

"Say buddy," he finally remarked, "you must think I'm an apple knocker if you expect me to swallow that stuff. Ain't we got a police force in town?"

DEPAUW STAVES
OFF CAVEMEN
RALLY WIN, 24-22

VISITING WABASH FIVE LEAD 13 TO 7 AT HALF BUT FIGHTING METHODISTS TIE SCORE AT OPENING OF FINAL PERIOD—TIGERS FAIL WITH PIVOT PLAY

Fighting off a desperate last-minute attack of the visiting Cavemen, DePauw successfully held a slender lead gained in the second half and won a 24 to 22 victory over Wabash Tuesday night.

The first half looked bad for DePauw, and Wabash gave some promise of breaking their long losing streak. During this period guarding on both sides was so close that under-the-basket shots were practically impossible, and Wabash caged more of her long shots than did DePauw.

Groves, visiting center, opened the scoring with a single point, but two long shots by Stone gave DePauw a temporary lead. Five successive points by Howell and a short shot by Chase changed things, however, and DePauw took time out with the score 10 to 4. Mountz shot a free one, but Bowman of the visitors was fouled, and made good both his field goal and one free throw. As the gun barked for the half, Loveless scored one under the basket, leaving the halftime score Wabash 13, DePauw 7.

Moffett's men as usual opened up the second half with a bang, when three quick baskets by Mountz, Loveless and Crawley tied the score. Bowman put Wabash ahead, but Mountz again knotted the count. Two free shots for the Tigers, and one for the Little Giants preserved a one-point lead for DePauw, 17 to 16. Loveless and Stone scored to increase the margin to five points, but Howell and Adams, sub for Chase, cut it down to a single point with but three minutes to go.

Wabash began substituting frantically in an attempt to find a scoring combination, while DePauw resorted to stalling. A short field goal by Stone was followed by a long shot from Bowman and nothing was gained. Mountz sank a free shot. Then, with the crowd on its feet shouting to "hold them," the gun sounded before Wabash had another chance to score.

Howell, floor guard, was the main cog in the Wabash play, and chased Stone for scoring honors with eight to Stone's nine. Mountz and Loveless followed with seven and six respectively. On the floor Mountz and Crawley looked best for DePauw, but the five men who played the game united to form a smooth-working machine. On offense DePauw showed better team play and dribbling, while on defense Wabash looked best, though using an antiquated system. Their forwards and center formed a line about the middle of the floor, and the guards covered man-for-man under the basket. The result was the stopping of the pivot play, and frequently forcing DePauw to pass back to a safety man. The shooting of both teams was ragged.

CANTWELL TO INTRODUCE 100

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 16.—(INS)—For a new member, Representative Thomas A. E. Cantwell, Republican of Terre Haute, expect to cut quite a figure at the 76th session of the Indiana General Assembly.

Of the anticipated 800 or more bills that will be introduced at this session Representative Cantwell expects to father at least 100 according to rumors circulating in the House.

The Cantwell desk in the House is a Mecca for a number of house members after each adjournment.

One of the first bills that Cantwell will bring forth will be a measure providing that circuit courts may authorize employment of clerical assistance by probate commissioners to protect estates and guardianships pending therein.

Another Cantwell bill will provide for the appointment, the qualifications, duties, authority, powers and compensation of judges pro tem. for superior courts.

Representative Cantwell was also to be in sympathy with the bill proposed by Representative Thomas Grant, Republican of Lowell, to make all county salaries uniform and he also may present a bill calling for the abolishing of the office of county assessor. The measure would transfer the duties of the county assessor to the township assessor. The county treasurer would act as president of the board of review in each county and the board would hereafter consist of four members as provided by law, except for the county assessor.

Cantwell also is sponsoring a bill providing for assistance or pensions for aged residents. This measure has the support of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. It would have the governor appoint a commission of three members to superintend these county pensions.

Wabash and DePauw staged one of their typical old-time rivalry scraps in Bowman gym last night with the outcome in doubt until the final explosion of the gun. The only thing lacking was the "Roarin' Forty" of Wabash.

WABASH ROOTERS EVIDENTLY HAVE LOST FAITH IN THEIR TEAM WHICH HAS NOW LOST FIVE GAMES ON THE HARDWOOD THIS YEAR.

Regardless of what Crawfordville thinks of the Cavemen they put up a tremendous fight against their traditional rivals. The Scarlet presented a defense that the Tigers simply could not penetrate. The DePauw pivot play failed for the first time last night. DePauw got only three under-the-basket shots and these did not result from pivot plays.

DePauw missed five free throws the first half last night almost enough to tie the score. Wabash missed twice out of five attempts. In the second half the Tigers made three out of six attempts.

DePauw took a 4-1 lead in the first few minutes of the game on long field goals by Stone from the side of the floor. Wabash tried the same game and longer shots by Groves and Howell put the Cavemen ahead 5 to 4. Howell boosted the Wabash score to 8 with a free throw and field goal and Chase made it 10 with another field goal. Mountz made a free throw and Bowman of Wabash caged a field goal and then a free throw on a foul committed by DePauw in trying to stop the flying Bowman when he tossed the field goal. Stone caged a DePauw field goal under the basket as the gun went off. Wabash thought the last 2 points should not have counted but the officials ruled otherwise.

In the second half the fighting Tigers came back strong and field goals by Mountz, Loveless and Crawley tied the score and caused the Cavemen to take time out. Again Mountz connected and the Tigers led 15 to 13. Never again were they headed although Wabash tied the score at 15-all and several times crawled up to within one point.

It was a great game and witnessed by the largest crowd of the season. The only thing lacking was the usual roaring rooters of Wabash college.

With Wabash disposed of by a narrow margin, local fans are praying for the same margin of victory over the Big Ten leading Bedford five when they come here to oppose the Tiger Cubs Friday night. Regardless of the outcome it will be a great game. Local fans will have the opportunity to see the leading team in Indiana high school basketball perform on the hardwood.

Saturday night an equally interesting game will be played when the Attica team comes here. Although the Cubs walloped the Red Devils on the Attica floor the visitors have improved considerably since that tilt. Attica also is expected to be one of the teams to play in the regional in March.

old high school gym. The colored teams are evenly matched, the Terre Haute five nosing out the local team on the Terre Haute floor recently. Tonight the local team will climax a week of practice with a supreme effort in the old high school gym.

Glenn Curtis' Martinsville five proved the supremacy of Indiana basketball last night when they turned back the national champion five from Ashland, Ky., 29 to 16. The visiting Kentucky five never got within threatening distance of the Artesians after the Martinsville five had taken a 7 to 2 advantage at the end of the first quarter. The game was played in quarters, like Junior games, at the request of the visiting team. Martinsville's celebration after the game was almost as great as that following the winning of the state tournament several years ago.

The fast-breaking offense of the Artesians was in direct contrast to the slow deliberate game of the Temcats.

Horace Mann defeated Froebel, 35 to 33, in the other outstanding net battle in Indiana high school circles last night. Both schools are located at Gary.

Flu Milder Than in 1918.

But Vicks Sets New Record
Although the type of flu this year is not so serious as in 1918, health authorities are urging everybody to treat even the slightest cold at the start, as colds lower the resistance and make the body an easy prey to bronchitis and pneumonia.

An interesting response to the warning has been the phenomenal call for Vicks VapoRub, the external treatment which proved so helpful in the 1918 epidemic.

In spite of vastly increased capacity, the Vicks laboratories are now more operating all night long and are now producing 375,000 jars daily. A substantial part of this increase is attributed to the widespread use of Vicks as a preventative.—Adv.

SORE THROAT
THOXINECHURCH TO OBSERVE
A DAY OF PRAYER

Sunday, January 20, is to be observed as a Day of Prayer and Offering for Foreign Missions throughout all the Presbyterian Churches in the United States. Rev. Victor L. Raphael is chairman of the Committee of Indianapolis Presbytery which has been allocated the sum of $4,000 as its share of Indiana's quota of $16,000. An accumulating indebtedness is placing the Board in a critical condition.

The Presbyterian Church in this city will give its congregation an opportunity to contribute to this cause at the morning service on Sunday. In the evening stereopticon pictures of "Persia, the Open Door of Islam," will be shown. The slides will depict the scenery and life of this fascinating but little traveled land and show how the church is meeting the opportunities offered by religious toleration.
